EUGLOH Certificate for Advanced Studies in Global Health is now OPEN for REGISTRATION!

LMU Munich has been developing a EUGLOH Certificate of Advanced Studies in Global Health Programme. The program is now approved and the application deadline is now set for the 29th February and the application is now open!

The EUGLOH Certificate of Advanced Studies in Global Health offers students at LMU Munich and associated partner institutions (including all nine EUGLOH Alliance Universities and CIH Partners worldwide) the unique opportunity to engage in dialogue with different disciplines, experts and peers from various universities about Global Health as a concept and approach to health issues, determinants and promotion, which transcend national and disciplinary boundaries.

The EUGLOH Certificate of Advanced Studies in Global Health is a study programme designed to be completed alongside a students' main degree subject from anywhere in the world. This two-semester programme covers at least 17 ECTS distributed across mandatory and elective modules, allowing students to explore beyond the scope of their current disciplines and gain a broader perspective on the interdisciplinary field of Global Health.

The EUGLOH Certificate of Advanced Studies in Global Health is set to start in April 2024, the application process is now open and runs until 29 February 2024.

For more information about the programme, eligibility criteria, content, duration and application, please visit the programme's website or contact the programme's coordination at certificate.eugloh@lmu.de

EUGLOH Idea Challenge Recap

The EUGLOH Idea Challenge has come to an end. How was the Idea Challenge? Let's hear what participants have to say!

Idea Challenges: Biomedical Engineering for Global Health

Nominzul Altankhuyag

"I participated the workshop "Biomedical Engineering for Global Health" which was organized by the University of Novi Sad, Serbia. This event was mainly designed for the biomedical students of the EUGLOH universities of Europe and different levels of students attended. For my team, we represented our university, the University of Szeged, with a project idea of "Smart sticker for Oral cancer" and successfully we were awarded as the best team and won the competition. It was a great opportunity to be given with a valuable lectures by professional professors and learn many things which certainly could boost my academic career in the future. Also, we had a networking opportunity as many universities and students from various background and levels attended there. I really hope the knowledge I gained from this workshop will help me in the future."

Swagata Chakraborty

"Coming together is a beginning. Keeping together is progress. Working together is success." — Henry Ford. The above quote summarizes the entire spirit of EUGLOH community and how for an international student the entire environment is positive and rejuvenating. Being selected for participation in "Biomedical Engineering for Global Health" workshop and representing University of Szeged with a win has been a mind-boggling experience. Our team presented the idea for a "Smart sticker for Oral cancer" which was awarded as the best emerging innovative idea in the field of global health. We made collaborations, learned about perspectives and gained knowledge about how we can start our Entrepreneurship career while being in academia or industry. University of Novi Sad has been an amazing host university and they left no stone unturned to make us feel home. Lastly, I am extremely grateful to EUGLOH for helping international students like us find their niche, expanding their horizons and motivating them to be the leaders in global health for a greener and sustainable EU."

Idea Challenges: Biomedical Engineering for Global Health

Chiminvang Yioaxouavang

"I am grateful to be representing the University of Szeged, and appreciate the opportunity that was given. I noticed that 3 days in University of Novi Sad was so short for me but I learned a lot more, and apart from what I could improve myself one step further, I realized that being part of this course, I gained more than what I expected. Having a chance to connect to many entrepreneurs is one of the most important things that people expect."

Ikhwan Yuda Kusuma

"Winning the Idea Challenges: Biomedical Engineering for Global Health competition with my exceptional team has been an enriching journey. Together, we delved into the intricacies of innovation project development, surpassing challenges and gaining a wealth of knowledge. This victory not only signifies our success but also highlights the collaborative spirit within our team. The competition provided a platform for us to showcase our skills in biomedical engineering, project management, and effective communication. It's not just a win; it's a testament to the collective effort and the wealth of knowledge we've attained along the way."
